Volume 39, Number 43 GREENBELT, MARYLAND Thursday, September 9, 1976

This winning entry in the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Logo Contest was designed and drawn by Joanne Volk, 17 G Ridge. Volk, a Greenbelt resident for twelve years, is a member of the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board. She is an architect associated with the firm of Ronald Sensman of Langley Park.

Her design centers around the festival theme "Unity through community involvement." The logo is made up of separate units unified into one whole - suggesting many people working on one project. It also suggests a looped green belt. The words announce the festival.

And How Was The Greenbelt March?

by Janet James

"Nice, really nice!" These comments and similar ones greeted the playing of the "Heart of Greenbelt March" on last Friday evening at the Labor Day festivities. As reported in last week's News Review, the march was composed by Seymour Levine, 37G Ridge Rd. and was entered in the contest sponsored by the Bicentennial Committee of the city of Greenbelt. It was arranged for band and orchestra by Fred Mordan, also of Greenbelt.

"Heart of Greenbelt March" is a lively piece throughout and it was impossible during the playing of it for a listener with any sense of rhythm to keep his feet quiet. The Greenbelt concert band no doubt played the March well on Friday evening; however, one longs for the privilege of hearing this special piece of Greenbelt music when the nuances of dynamics are not completely obliterated by overamplification.

Eleanor Roosevelt Sr. High Has Smooth Opening Day

Eleanor Roosevelt had a quiet opening on Sept. 7. The buses started rolling up to the new building at about 9 a.m., discharging students who were routed into the cafeteria (known as the "Commons") before going to class. Considering that the school is vast, with rooms far apart, that the air-conditioning was not working in several rooms, and that many teachers had exchanged classes in order to balance teaching loads, the day went smoothly. First period lasted longer than the others, since the counselors and vice-principals were busy changing schedules and assigning new students to classes; and the lunch period had to be extended since the cafeteria lines moved more slowly than anticipated, but for the most part students got to class on time and teachers managed to take accurate rolls and give students a first-day-of-school description of the courses and lay down classroom rules. ("Please try to behave as if this is a business office. You have something to learn here . . . ")

To be sure there were still workmen busy on the building itself, and the teachers often appeared somewhat vague as to instructions to students on reaching the next class, but twenty minutes after the first class had begun the school had settled into that quiet that indicates that the new school year is under way. Lunch is to be on the fifth period, and the cafeteria served over 1000 lunches, exceeding expectations.

— Open House —

Principal Ray Ogden said that an open house is planned for all parents in the near future. This is to be during a weekend, it is hoped, so that more parents will be able to attend. At that time teachers will be present to meet the parents and the school will be open for inspection.

An open house for parents of students in the competitive athletics program is scheduled next week.

The school at present has only 9th, 10th, and 11th grade students. For the most part classes are of about 27 students or fewer in the academic subjects, and no teacher has more than three subjects to teach.

Greenbelt Homemakers

The Extension Homemakers club in Greenbelt is one of 80 clubs in Prince Georges County, totaling 2,000 members. The club meets once a month at a member's home to hear a program presented by a club member or guest speaker based on materials and information supplied by the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Maryland. Some of the programs planned for this year are "What's New in Cookery", "Women's Roles," "Buy Now-Pay Later," "Metric Magic," "Nutrition," and "Death and Dying."

The craft activities this year will feature the making of bread dough baskets and rolls, Polydomes, "Quail Egg Necklaces" quilting by machine, candy house and "1776 Under Glass."

The first meeting will be held on Wednesday, September 15, at 8 p.m. at the home of Fran Crisman. 104 Ivy Lane, Boxwood Village. How to make egg rolls will be demonstrated by Lori Hawes and Carolyn Crowley; the girls are 4-H members who won champion ribbons at the County and State Fairs for their excellent presentation.

For more information call Mary Ann Baker, 474–1706.

Golddiaaer Registration

Registration for the Greenbelt Golddiggers Majorettes will be held on Tues., Sept. 14, from 6–8 p.m. at Center School. The Golddiggers welcome registration from interested girls ages 4 and up.

Kenneth Buker: Greenbelt's Outstanding 1976 Citizen

by Elaine Skolnik

"He is 80 years young, a familiar figure around Greenbelt and we find him active in such youth groups as Greenbelt CARES and Boy Scouts . . . and at the other end of the spectrum, he is chaplain of the Golden Age Club,active in senior citizen activities . . ." These words of Ruth Dee in tribute to the "Outstanding Citizen of the Year" left no doubt in anyone's mind that the award was about to be presented to the Rev. Kenneth Buker.

In accepting the plaque given by the Cipriano family in memory of "Pop" Cipriano, Buker said, "It is a great honor to be considered the Citizen of the Year, a great honor to be a citizen of Greenbelt, of Prince Georges County and the U.S.A, the greatest country in the world" He urged everyone 18 years and older to register to vote in Greenbelt and in the national elections.

Buker also received a $100 savings bond from Barbara Johnson, representative of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, a plant from Fred's Florist and a dinner for two from Emersons.

Dee noted that it was only natural that the Rev. Buker should be chosen as chaplain of the Patuxent Scout District (the northern third of P. G. county), for "scouting is made up of all races, religions, creeds, and sizes of scouts, and the chaplain must be one who can speak to all. We in Greenbelt expect this because we're used to, for example, sitting in a Protestant church hearing a message by a Catholic priest and being taught a Thanksgiving song in Hebrew by the rabbi."

"We often forget," she continued, "that the Rev. Buker sees very little with his eyes, but sees all with his ears, and perhaps that is his secret for he, of necessity, must listen. Listening has almost become a lost art. We all need someone to listen to our troubles, so maybe people seek out psychiatrists to listen to their troubles, so maybe in addition to the community chaplain, he is the community psychiatrist as well"

This year 22 nominating letters were received for 12 individuals. Other members of the committee for the selection of the outstanding citizen in addition to chairwoman Dee were Stephanie Cornett, Selma Hammond, Franz Ohlson, Al Geiger, Joe Mulvihill, and Juanita Wilmer.

A Weekend Filled with Variety

Again the seasons roll 'round — the autumn opening and the summer ending as they do each year in Greenbelt with the community festival. It would be hard to imagine one more perfect. The pleasant notes struck earlier in the summer chimed again — the good fellowship of our Bicentennial remembrances of the nation's past, the non-rancorous conventions. (We were thinking of some of the parade floats, with their patriotic themes, and the ubiquitous and genial politicans who came to call.) The joys of the Olympics were suggested also in the parade visit of Sugar Ray Leonard.

The divisive issue of an earlier time — busing and desegregration — had disappeared, and the idea suggested in the selection of the lovely and first black Miss Greenbelt that we can live together. The women's issues seemed to have moved into the forfront (Planned Parenthood near Right-to-Life, NOW near the League of Women Voters in the festival booths). But if they led to acrimony and disharmony, we missed it.

The weather played us fair this year. The pancake breakfast was as good as ever, and the booth tenders as congenial. The continuous repast of delightful shows, good music, and good dancing — both on stage and before it — and the athletic events and special exhibits filled our weekend with variety.

In all, a fitting end to a Bicentennial summer of good fellowship — a package tied up in gold ribbon that contains the fruits of our community.

Stephen P. Dean

Steve Dean, age 26, son of Walter and Rita Dean, 2-A Ridge, died after a heart attack on September 6. A resident of Silver Spring, Steve is also survived by his sister Kathryn Nieman, brothers Hugh O'Donnell and James Dean, aunt Margaret Baldovin of Greenbelt and uncles Paul Dean of Silver Spring and Philip Dean of New Rochelle, N.Y.

Burial will be from St. Michaels Catholic Church in Silver Spring. The family suggests that expressions of sympathy be in the form of contributions to the Montgomery County Cerebral Palsy Association.

Dean worked on a parttime basis for the Evening Star Sports Department. A special tribute to him appeared in the Sept 7 issue of the Star:

Dean was born with cerebral palsy. He spent his boyhood in braces and in special schools and hospitals. He grew up to be a strong young man in a troubled body . . .

"What can I say?" Jack McGee the former Georgetown University basketball coach said. "What can anyone say? He was an extraordinary human being. He went to the plate with a broken bat in his hand, going aganst Sandy Koufax every day. And he could laugh about it How many do you know who could laugh about that?" . . .

Eddie McNamara was Stevie Dean's best friend. McNamara is the assistant basketball coach at Catholic University, where only last month Dean took the job as sports information director, a job he had been trying to get for three years. Dean and McNamara were roommates in college . . .

"Can you put into the paper how special Stevie was?" McNamara asked plaintively. "After all his hard work and dreaming, his life was just starting to be what he wanted, and now he's gone. People should want to know about a kid like him. People want inspirations. He was an inspiration.

"I mean, people just didn't like Stevie; they loved him. He was a living legend. That's trite, I know, but that is what he was. He was a legend in high school at Good Counsel. He was a legend at Georgetown University. He was a legend around Catholic U. He was a legend in all those Capitol Hill bars, where he drank his beer.

"He laughed off his affliction, just laughed it right off," said Andy Guida, the athletic director at Good Counsel High School. "When he was a freshman he went on a run in gym class with the other boys. He fell down. I told him he didn't have to run but he laughed and said, "I can do it." And he did. He made it.

"Four years later at graduation he tripped going across the stage at Constitution Hall to get his awards for being the most popular senior and for managing the basketball team and making the academic honor society. He got up smiling — and to a standing ovation. It was a moving moment for everyone in the place." . . .

As a parttimer Dean was not officially a Star staff writer. Circumstances that had nothing to do with him kept him from it. Someday he would have been. So it was that his byline read, "By Steve Dean," and beneath his name the agate line, "Special to The Star."

By God he was that.

Letters to the Editor

Greenbelt Citizens Priority

I agree with Mrs. Zanin; it wouldn't be fair to the citizens of Greenbelt if her letter of September 2 were not answered.

True, Mrs. Zanin, you may have attended numerous council meetings. However, the two most important meetings concerning the material to be placed in the pamphlet on elderly housing you apparently failed to attend. It was at these meetings that the subject of priority of Greenbelt citizens to be considered for the housing units was discussed. In this pamphlet, to be mailed to each Greenbelt citizen, it will state, "first preference to Greenbelt residents." . .

Also, H.U.D. criteria will be followed especially as to discrimination. We of the Golden Agers would not want to bar . . . (any Greenbelters) if they met the regulations, and wished to live with their elderly friends in clean, comfortable reasonably priced housing which they could afford.

Thank you, Mrs. Zanin, for your comments; they were well taken.

Robert R Dove,
President, Golden Age Club of Greenbelt

Clarification

On April 26, 1976, the Department of Housing and Urban Development amended its 1975 regulations pertaining to projects like the proposed Greenbelt senior citizen housing project. Sec. 880.218, after affirming the responsibility of the owner, the city in our case, to determine the eligibility of applicants and select occupants, added a proviso to the 1975 regulations ". . . that in establishing criteria for the selection of applicants, no local residency requirements or priority systems relating to place of residence may be applied to applicants who are working in the community"

It follows from this that residency requirements may be in order as long as persons working in Greenbelt are treated as residents. City council has already decided that first preference or priority of occupancy will be given to those who reside or work in the city.

Incidentally, the HUD regulations were issued six days after the much discussed Supreme Court decision in the Chicago case.

Good Business

Simply for good business reasons, I plan to vote YES on the Senior Citizens Housing Referendum Sept. 28. This project will add a substantial asset to the city's net worth – at no cost to local taxpayers. Mortgage retirement payments will be made solely from rents paid by the tenants and federal rent supplements. Each year the city's equity in the property will increase, and in 40 years, the local taxpayers will own a very valuable income producing property (not like the city hall and other properties that produce no income) – and completely free of debt! It is rare that the poor taxpayer gets a break like this.

There are other benefits – New York bankers base interest rates they charge cities to finance local bond issues largely on total property assets that the city can show. A substantial equity in this property could help lower interest rates to the city for other projects. This property will also pay the city substantial taxes on land that is now producing no tax income. Some citizens now receiving real estate property tax credits, and others receiving rent rebates from the city, because of age and low income, will move into this project, and lift some load at least, from local tax payers.

I recommend this project, not only to the humanitarian-minded voter but to the thrifty-minded, as well.

Former Greenbelt City Manager

THANKS

On behalf of the Labor Day Festival Steering committee I wish to thank everyone involved with the parade for their efforts. Although it's impossible to mention everyone by name, I appreciate the spirit of the participants and feel this parade represented the true Greenbelt tradition.

Eevryone is invited to the appreciation party Friday, Sept. 17 (see story elsewhere).

What a Festival!

What a Festival! The weather, the parade, the Queen Pageant, the special events, the carnival area - all were great The Festival Steering Committee, with a lot of help, created an event that brought the whole city together to once more experience our richness and community spirit. And now we even have our own music - "The Heart of Greenbelt". The theme of the Festival - "Unity Through Community Involvement" - was abundantly demonstrated. How sweet it was!

"Mundane" Label Objection

Bravo! You have captured perfectly the sparkle one finds at Eleanor Roosevelt Senior High School, in your article of August 26. Principal Ray Ogden is indeed excited and proud, and has reason to be. We're all proud of what's been created at Roosevelt, and excited at the prospects the Technology Center program offers. Certainly your reporter, Sandra Barnes, has successfully shared with your readers the opportunities Roosevelt creates for students.

But while throwing a bouquet, allow me also to make another point: Ms. Barnes refers to the technology programs as "a pillar shining through the rather mundane fabric which comprises the Prince Georges County public school system." I believe a great many parents, students and teachers would take exception to that characterization of the rest of our schools here. While we're proud of Roosevelt . . . justifiably so, I believe . . . we're also very proud of many other schools and programs within our system, and feel a sense of excitement about the prospects for the coming school year. Mundane fabric? No indeed! We have our problems, yes, as does any other school system of our size and complexity. But there is much here that is outstanding, both in terms of facilities and people, as well as the students who are being prepared to take your place and mine.

Ms. Barnes makes reference to Eleanor Roosevelt's "handpicked faculty." Certainly great care was exercised in selecting the faculty for Roosevelt, but certainly, too, we would not say that this is an elitist group. We apply high standards to faculty selection county-wide, and believe the results are evident in the professionalism and dedication exhibited at all our schools.

It is important also to note that the Comprehensive High School portion of Eleanor Roosevelt Senior High is not unlike the programs offered at other high schools in Prince Georges County. The approved system-wide curricula offer students a wide and rich educational program, and in that light, Roosevelt will be exemplary.

Thank you for the opportunity to share our views with your readers.

Health Fair on Sept. 18

On Sat., Sept. 18, from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. the Greenbelt Lions Club will sponsor a Health Fair at the Center School. At the Fair screening procedures are available to test for certain diseases and medical conditions which could require further treatment. The Health Fair screening does not, of course, take the place of a good medical exam by a doctor, but it can help in early detection of medical problems.

Free hearing, vision, glaucoma, and pap tests will be given as well as free breast examinations for women and blood pressure readings.

For $4 participants can get a blood test for twelve different constituents such as cholesteral, glucose, uric acid, albumin, etc. The results of the test can be used to determine the presence of gout, diabetes, certain bone and kidney diseases and other conditions. People interested in this test should fast for twelve hours before taking it . Water, coffee or tea without cream or sugar may be taken, however.

Pharmacists Larry Jason and Barbara Kopelman from Consumers Co-op Pharmacy will be on hand to explain Consumers Patient Profile Cards. These cards, kept by Consumers, list all prescriptions a patient is taking and their numbers, the patient's allergies and any adverse reactions to any drugs. In this way the pharmacy can help patients avoid taking drugs, or combinations of drugs, that can be dangerous. The Profile Cards, too, can help if a patient loses a prescription number since the cards are filed by name, while the prescriptions are filed by number.

There are also plans to have a Social Security Administration representative at the Health Fair to answer questions concerning social security and Medicare. For further information concerning the Fair call Ivan Lindahl at 344-2283 or Henry Fisher at 474-1817.

These races were sponsored by the Labor Day Festival Committee and Co-Sponsored by the Greenbelt Recreation Department and the D. C. Road Runners Club

Our Neighbors

Elaine Skolnik - 474-6060

Bea Skolnik and her son Al Skolnik, edged out a half-point victory over runners-up Ann and Lou Mead at last Friday's duplicate bridge session. The duplicate club will now be resuming its regular schedule, meeting the 2nd and 4th Friday of each month at the Youth Center, starting at 8 p.m.

Also visiting the Skolniks during the fantastic Labor Day Festivities were nieces Leslie, Debbie and Emily of Scarsdale, New York. They thought Greenbelt was "beautiful" and thoroughly enjoyed the games, rides, parade, programs, and meeting all the celebrities.

Glad to hear that Viola Keer, of Lakeside, is feeling better after recent hospitalization. We wish her a speedy recovery.

A speedy recovery also to Beth Kessler, Woodland Way, who is expected home from the hospital this week.

Our deepest sympathy to Rita and Walter "Bud" Dean, 2-A Ridge, on the death of their son Steve Dean.

Seen around town over the Labor Day weekend was former Greenbelter Joe Nusinov and his wife, who reside in Florida. They were present last Friday night when their good friend Seymour Levine's composition "The Heart of Greenbelt" was played for the first time. Also saw Joe's son Norman, who is now living in Washington.

Congratulations to Steve and Kathy Colby, 8102 Lakecrest Dr., on the birth of their son, Travis William, on August -5. He weighed in at 7 lbs 11 oz. He is the grandson of Martha Colby, who lives next door to him in Greenbelt. His paternal grandfather is Jack Baker.

Airman Raymond S. Salamy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gheen, 112 Lastner Lane, has graduated at Lackland AFB, Tex., from Air Force basic training. Airman Salamy is remaining at Lackland for specialized training in the security police field.

Welcome home, Leonie and Walter Penney, 127 Northway. The Penney's just returned from a three week vacation in Holland, where they visited Leonie's relatives. Highlight of the vacation was a trip to Austria.

We have it on high authority that sharing the ride is a very good idea.

It made sense to Noah. After all, it was a whole lot more economical and efficient to get together and share the ride than it would have been for everybody to go their own way.

And that still holds true today. Sharing the ride with just one other person can cut your commuting costs in half.

Think about it.

Share the ride with a friend. It sure beats driving alone.

Bicentennial Activities

by Stephen Polaschik

The final major event in Greenbelt's celebration of our Nation's Bicentennial was an overwhelming success as the 1976 Greenbelt Labor Day Festival came to a close From the opening ceremonies when the Greenbelt Concert Band played, for the first time, the official Greenbelt March composed by Greenbelt resident Seymour Levine to the final ceremonies when "Greenbelt Citizen of the Year" Reverend Kenneth Buker presented awards, the Festival provided all of us with an opportunity to take part—either actively as program participants, or passively as a portion of the enthusiastic audiences that were present at many of the events.

The weather was made-to-order for all four days of the Festival. The careful months-long planning of the Labor Day Festival Committee was very evident as programs, such as the parade, which involved great numbers of volunteers, were presented with special care. It would be extremely difficult to name each of the people, from the chairman to the clean-up crew, who were responsible for putting together this great program. However as chairman of the Greenbelt American Revolution Bicentennial Committee, and, I am sure, I echo the sentiments of my committee colleagues and the citizens of Greenbelt, I want to thank all of you for giving us a memorable week-end.

We still have time left for getting Bicentennial ideas that can be put into action before the end of 1976. Bring them to the Bicentennial Committee's meeting next Tuesday night, September 14, at 8 p.m. in the city council room.

Greenbelt organization historians are requested to bring or send their updated histories for the Bicentennial Archives in the Tugwell Room to Mrs. Betty Allen at the Greenbelt Library. Those needing help with background information, may consult copies of back issues of the Greenbelt News Review, available on microfilm at the library. Mrs. Allen or others on the library staff will provide assistance.

Quilt Exhibit at Library

The National Quilting Association's Seventh Annual Quilt Exhibit will be at the library during the week of September 13. The exhibit is open to the public free admission. The hours are as follows: Tues., Sept. 14 – 1 p.m. – 9 p.m.; Wed. and Thurs., Sept. 15, 16 – 9 a.m. – 9 p.m.; Fri., Sept. 17 – 9 a.m. – 6 p.m. and Sat., Sept. 18 – 9 a.m. – 1 p.m.

The Chrysanthemum Trail

Come, follow the Chrysanthemum Trail on Sunday afternoon, September 19, from 1:30 to 5 p.m. The paper chrysanthemums will lead people on the House and Garden Tour of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. Read the News Review next week for more details.

Festival Party Sept. 17

The thank you party for everyone who worked on the 1976 Labor Day Festival will be held Friday, Sept. 17, from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the American Legion Hall on Greenbelt Road. From 8 to 9 a slide presentation of highlights from the Festival will be shown by Bill Bernhards, Festival photographer. The live band Kodels will provide music for dancing from 9 o'clock on. Refreshments will be provided, admission is free and all adults are welcome. For further information, call Bob Grigsby at 262-5230.
